

A FOREST PETRIFIES
DIAMOND FEEDBACK

FÉLICIA ATKINSON

A forest petrifies: Diamond Feedback is the first part of a larger novel in several episodes. Inspired by the Petrified Forest in Arizona and its ability to change over time from an organic to a mineral state, the story was conceived by the musician and artist Félicia Atkinson over the past five years, while its on-going writing has been the starting point of many of Atkinson's music lyrics and recent records and exhibitions.

A part of the book takes place in the middle of the desert in an indistinct future. Two men are having a discussion by a fire in a modernist house. The music they are listening to is not emitted by a device but by themselves, it's a new kind of technology. They look at the embers of the fire and it reminds them of a painting by Hieronymus Bosch. They suddenly wonder if those embers could be a republic of some kind. A Forest Petrifies is a novel about the perception of time and how some places mark people's minds.

This PDF was downloaded from <http://viceversaartbooks.com/items/a-forest-petrifies-diamond-feedback/>

© Vice Versa Art Books
viceversaartbooks.com

Supported by edcat.net

ARTISTS' BOOK

A Forest Petrifies: Diamond Feedback

by Félicia Atkinson

Publisher Shelter Press

Release Place Paris, France

Edition 1st edition

Release Date 2019

ISBN 978-2-36582-035-6

Credits Artist: Félicia Atkinson

Printrun 700

Availability Available

Price 12.00 Euro

Work

Subform Novel

Topics Desert, Modernism, Time

Language English

Object

Format Softcover

Dimensions 11.0 × 18.0 × 0.5 cm

Weight 60 gram

Interior

Pages 56