

This book is a collection of Thomas Geiger's Images from the Thinking Machine. On 160 pages texts, fotos and video stills give an overview of his daily practice: "Thinking Machine, this is what I call my construction of three revolving discs with about 50 adjectives and nouns each. Since 2008 I have been spinning the discs regularly before leaving the house. The resulting combination of words stays with me throughout the day and thus serves as a basis for my visualization in either a photo, an action, a video or the description of a situation."
