

How does thought relate to the form in which it appears? Is its material appearance simply a constraint or does thought realise itself in matter? Can philosophy help poetry think about its physical presence on paper? The chapbook January explores these possibilities of the poetic automaticity of thought, released from the immediate pressure of the pen or the digital remove of the screen by the distributed but manually exacting apparatus of the typewriter.

This PDF was downloaded from
<http://viceversaartbooks.com/items/january/>

© Vice Versa Art Books
viceversaartbooks.com

Supported by edcat.net

ART THEORY

January by Nathan Brown

Publisher Broken Dimanche

Release Place Berlin, Germany

Release Date 2017

ISBN 978-3-943-19654-2

Credits Artist: Nathan Brown

Availability Available

Price 14.00 Euro

Work

Language English

Object

Format softcover

Interior

Pages 36